

Berlin Mathematical School (BMS) – Get Your Math PhD in Berlin

The Berlin Mathematical School is a joint endeavor of the mathematics' departments at the universities in Berlin: Freie Universität (FU), Humboldt-Universität (HU) and Technische Universität (TU).

We offer an excellent doctoral program taught in English in a broad and active research environment together with mentoring programs, language courses, soft-skills seminars, funding for summer schools and conferences, a buddy program and funding for students with children.

Our seven Research Areas are:

1. Differential geometry, global analysis, and mathematical physics
2. Algebraic and arithmetic geometry, number theory
3. Probability, statistics, and financial mathematics
4. Discrete mathematics and combinatorial optimization
5. Geometry, topology, and visualization
6. Numerical mathematics and scientific computing
7. Applied analysis and differential equations

Admission to Phase I: possible with a Bachelor's degree or equivalent

Admission to Phase II: possible with a Master's degree or equivalent
