

BRUNSWICK STUDENT INTERNSHIP – AT THE HEART OF EU AFFAIRS

Brunswick is an international corporate communications and public affairs consultancy that helps businesses and other organisations address critical communications challenges. In Brussels, Brunswick focuses on EU public and regulatory affairs, media relations and corporate reputation building.

We are offering a paid student internship position starting in February or March 2018.

The ideal candidate will join our international and multilingual team in Brussels, where she/he will participate as a junior team member alongside our experienced consultants. She/he will assist on client accounts and assignments covering areas of EU policy development such as financial services, energy and environmental policy, food and consumer industries, digital & intellectual property and telecoms. The internship will give the successful candidate direct experience of the role of a consultant and insight into how public affairs and corporate communications strategies are formulated and implemented. The role will typically involve research into policy issues, following political debates on relevant issues and drafting information and advice notes for clients.

We are looking for candidates with a strong academic background, knowledge of EU decision-making, excellent analytical and communication skills and an appetite to learn. Fluency in English is a requirement, German language skills would be an asset and proficiency in other European languages is welcomed. The candidate should be a registered student throughout the duration of the internship and must be able to provide a Convention de Stage or the equivalent documentation from their university should their application be successful.

The internship would start in February/March 2018 and last for up to 6 months. Some flexibility with dates is possible. Brunswick pays its interns a monthly allowance to help towards living and other costs.
