6 DAYS, 5 CONTINENTS, 4 YOU!

As part of Freie Universität Berlin's International Week 2015, the event is dedicated to the opportunities and challenges of international research collaboration. The panel discussion “Internationalization 3.0 – Current Challenges and Models for Higher Education and Research” will focus on the implications that continuous internationalization and globalization have for Higher Education Institutions and how they influence the career paths of researchers. Drawing from their own experience and expertise, four Higher Education experts will share their visions for further internationalization and discuss possible next steps for university management and researchers alike. Afterwards, Junges Wissenschaftsforum Dahlem will offer three different sessions on internationalization for junior researchers. We will address key topics for every academic career, such as going abroad with a postdoc fellowship, working as a professor in different countries and academic contexts, and fostering international cooperation at your home institution.
