

On April 23-24, Stiftung Charité, Kauffman Foundation, and Charité Medical School will host the fifth Entrepreneurship Summit in Berlin. We gather creative scientists, clinicians, doctoral students, and Postdocs, as well as tech transfer professionals from around Germany and Europe and connect them with venture capitalists, business angels, successful entrepreneurs, business developers, patent lawyers, and other experts from Europe and North America.

Please find the confirmed speakers here.

The Charité Partnering is a forum where selected inventors can pitch biomedical and medtech start-ups and technology platforms to venture capitalists, business developers, business angels, and other relevant professionals.

Please forward this call to inventors and entrepreneurs in your network.

The Partnering is now open for applications from academic inventors, start-ups, and growth companies. Venture capitalists, business angels, business development managers, entrepreneurship experts, and lawyers/ tax advisors can register as well. Visit Charité Partnering for more details. The application deadline for presenters (entrepreneurs and inventors) is March 26.

Start-up teams from outside Germany who are selected by our jury will receive travel stipends to participate in the Charité Partnering.

See you in Berlin!
